Dear Parent,

RE: Academic Coaching

We have recently partnered with PaceSetter, an educational coaching company, who are offering RGS A-Level students discounted academic coaching. The School is fully supportive of the coaching approach; we believe that students can greatly benefit from this level of support.

The coach's role is to draw out from the student their academic goals, agree upon an action plan to achieve these, then help the student put commitments into practice. Instead of telling or instructing, coaching is about empowering learners and giving people the space to think for themselves. This process imparts ownership and responsibility for learning to the student.

We think this could be a valuable intervention and are excited to partner with PaceSetter who are offering coaching at a significant discount. This amounts to a 50% reduction with 6 x 30-minute coaching sessions offered at £150.

Places will be offered on a 'first come first served' basis, and parents or students should enquire directly with PaceSetter and reference the School's partnership.

The School is fully supportive of this opportunity, though parents must understand that any arrangements made with PaceSetter are independent of the School. As such, parents should carry out their own background and vetting checks. RGSHW can assume no responsibility in this regard.
