Dear Parent

MEDSOC

The RGS Medical Society is a thriving and well-attended group with the aim of supporting Year 11, 12 and 13 students with their applications to study Medicine at university.

In order to give students a real insight into the medical profession we very much value current medical professionals giving up their time and coming into school over a lunchtime to give a brief talk about what their careers involve. We aim to have presentations from a range of professions including GPs, anaesthetists and medical research scientists. Last year we had several fantastic presentations from parents from a range of medical related careers – it would be brilliant if those concerned could contact me again if you would be willing to repeat the talks this year as students gained significant value from them.

We are currently in the process of preparing a schedule of talks for current students. If you are working in any area of the medical profession and you feel you would be able to help out with one of these talks at any point throughout the year please contact me on pjw@rgshw.com.

Kind regards

Mr Peter Wood
